GIRL FELLED BY SLEEPING MEDICINE

She's Fed Two Ounce Bottle By Sister

LAPSES INTO COMA; REVIVED AT HOSPITAL

A 1 year old girl lapsed into a coma Monday after she was fed sleeping medicine.

The girl was fed the medicine by her 3 year old sister in Perkiomenville RD 1.

Donna Marie Pishock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pishock, was in her upstairs playpen where a sister, Linda removed a two ounce bottle from a medicine closet. Mrs. Pishock was outside the house.

Linda, who had become familiar with the bottle during an illness several months ago, fed the contents to her sister.

SHE THEN told her mother what she had done.

Mrs. Pishock found Donna Marie in good spirits and took her to the living room.

There the girl fell into a coma. Mrs. Pishock hurridly called a neighbor, Richard Hagenbuch, and they drove Donna Marie to Pottstown hospital.

The girl was revived in the emergency room at 1:15 p. m., but lapsed into another coma shortly after.

Given additional treatment, Donna Marie was in fair condition early this morning.

Steelworkers Re-elect Getz Committee Head

Veteran union official Norman Getz Monday afternoon was unanimously re-elected chairman of the grievance committee of Bethlehem Steel company's Local 2177, United Steel workers of America.

Getz, who lives at 944 High street, thus begins his second term as head of the committee, during his fifth two-year hitch on the panel.

The election and discussion on grievances took place in CIO-AFL hall at 1304 High street.

Getz was defeated recently in a campaign to become vice president of the union by Frank Jagielski. He was also unsuccessful in a bid to become president the previous election.

'Old Glory' Removed From Tarpaulin Duty

The abuse of an American flag at the rear of a Route 100 roadside luncheonet, pictured in The Mercury Saturday, has stopped.

The flag, found draped over old furniture, tarpaulin style, was gone Monday.

Recreation Panel Forced to Abandon Basketball League

The borough recreation commission voted Monday night to discontinue the Senior Recreation Basketball league in an attempt to balance its budget.

The eight team intramural league for Pottstown High school boys must be dropped because the school board did not appropriate as much money as the commission asked for the 1960-1961 school year, director Edwin L. Shellenberger said.

Approximately 80 High school boys participated in the league last year. The program began in 1946.

Morrell Grigg, High school director of athletics, who conducted the league, said Monday night, "It's a real shame . . . there's a whole lot of enthusiasm for the league.

THE PARTICIPANTS are boys who are not able to make the varsity or junior varsity basketball teams and those who can't play varsity ball because work schedules conflict with afternoon practice.

Grigg said it was never a matter of ability—any boy desiring could usually make one of the eight teams. Even handicapped boys played in the league—their only such opportunity.

The dropping of the league will save the recreation commission approximately $200.

The commission is financed through money from both the borough and the school district. The school district share is partly reimbursements from the State.

In 1959-1960 the State provided

SON-IN-LAW OF PHYSICIAN DIES IN CRASH

Victim was Former Resident of Area

The 38 year old son-in-law of a Pottstown physician was killed instantly late Sunday night when he fell asleep at the wheel of his car and crashed into a cement bridge spanning a creek in Sayre.

The victim, John Geyer, was the son-in-law of Dr. Thomas H. Powick, 554 High street, and the husband of Jean (Powick) Geyer.

John Geyer

The top 1943 graduate of Pennsylvania State university with a bachelor of science degree in agriculture, he was a frequent contributor to agricultural journals. He leaves three children, Thomas, 13, Lynn, 12, and Randy, 6.

A son of Anna (Bean) Geyer and the late Norman Geyer, he was a native of Skippack. Following graduation from college, he turned down a five year fellowship to operate his own farm near Pughtown.

Following service in World War II, he was married and began operating the 140-acre farm. Four years ago he gave up farming to accept a position as western Pennsylvania representative with Farmers Cooperative Insurance company, moving to Towanda RD 4.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the Dotts Funeral home Skippack, with the Rev. Howard A. Kosman, pastor of Zion's Reformed United Church of Christ, Hanover and Chestnut streets, officiating. Cremation will follow services.

PROBE BY DA OF CAFETERIA TO END SOON

School Investigation Report Also is Expected

30 EMPLOYES WERE QUIZZED

The District Attorney's office expects to complete its extended probe of the Upper Perkiomen Joint school cafeteria system by the end of the week, District Attorney Herbert Spencer announced Monday.

Once the reports are completed by the county detectives, Spencer will study them before deciding on a course of action. County detectives have been probing the cafeteria activities for several months, and have interviewed more than a score of school board members, cafeteria officials, and cafeteria employes.

At the same time, a report from the joint board's probe of the cafeteria is expected shortly. The joint board probe was a separate study into "rumors" concerning the cafeteria operations that have persisted for several years.

The joint board's study was conducted at two secret hearings from which the press and public

Wunderlichs Wonder What Broke Window

A shattered rear car window has provided the Garson Wunderlichs of Douglassville with an interesting Summer mystery.

The Wunderlichs — Mr. and Mrs. and Anna, 14—returned from church Sunday morning, parked the family car in front of the house with several windows open, and went into the house to eat lunch.

An hour later they started towards the car to take a Sunday afternoon ride—only to find the rear window completely shattered.

The possibility that a baseball or a stray rock had crashed through the window was discounted—because all the broken glass was outside the car.

John Klein, owner of Klein's garage, Douglassville, thinks the heat must have cracked the window—despite the fact that it was less than 80 at the time.

2 Local Motorists To Get Summonses

Two Pottstown motorists today will get summonses for speeding, according to Justice of the Peace Paul W. Hafer, Exeter township.

John G. Brant, Prospect and Hanover streets, and August P. Blair, 878 South street, were caught speeding in Exeter township the past Saturday. The arrests by Police Chief John Horine were on Route 422.

Each offender will face fines and costs of $15.

Protest Fails to Halt Okay Of Upper Pottsgrove Taxes

By RADFORD CROUSE
(Mercury Staff Writer)

A heated discussion preceded adoption of tax resolutions and the budget for 1960-61 for Upper Pottsgrove township Monday night when the township school board met at the elementary school.

George Needhammer, a board member, and W. Drexel Pierce, president, argued on the legality of part of the board's occupation tax proposed for adoption.

Needhammer claimed that inclusion of farmers of the township on the tax rolls this year would be illegal because the board had not filed proper notification with the Montgomery County Board of Assessment of its intention.

He said, "The occupation tax for farmers is being changed from nothing to $75. The farmer has been paying nothing, and you need the permission of the county to change that."

THE DISCUSSION turned to assessments involving members of the board, but Pierce requested that the argument be kept "above the level of personalities."

Pierce ruled Needhammer out of order and said the question could not be solved until Solicitor Philip Salkin arrived at the meeting.

Pierce explained that the occupation tax resolution was drawn to include farmers years ago, but the tax had never been collected. This year the board will include farmers on the tax rolls.

Salkin said the occupation tax was authorized under Act 481 of the State legislature and "has nothing to do with the county board of assessment."

THE OCCUPATION tax of 100 mills, expected to yield $9000, was adopted along with a real estate levy of 50 mills. The vote was 4 to 1 on the occupation tax, with Needhammer's the lone dissenting vote.

The real estate tax is 15 mills above that assessed in 1959-60 and is expected to bring in $101,987. Also adopted was a $5 per capita tax, which is to yield $9000, and a 1 percent real estate transfer tax, expected to bring $1500 to the board.

The per capita and transfer taxes are shared by the school district and the road board.

SCHUMACHER IS ELECTED BY HOSPITAL

School Department Head Named to Board

Karl H. Schumacher, 379 Wilson street, was elected to the Pottstown hospital board Monday during its monthly meeting.

He is head of the department of chemistry, Pottstown High school, and first became associated with the hospital when he was 14 as a protege of Dr. George Cressman, who was on the staff.

Schumacher performed odd jobs around the hospital at that time.

The board approved the purchase of a new X-ray unit. The machine is designed to take pictures of badly injured patients without the necessity of moving the patient and is so constructed to be of valuable

Sunny, Humid Weather Will Swelter Area

Pottstown's weekend romance with Summer will begin to fade today, but not before more fair skies and sunshine set the early scene.

Humidity will increase this afternoon, cloudiness will be evident, and temperatures will be warmer. Rain is expected late tomorrow or early Thursday.

Monday kept the weekend's perfect weather record intact, with a high of 86 marking the warmest day since April 23, when the mercury reached 87.

Only a low humidity reading of 32 percent kept the day from becoming unbearable. Most of the day there was not

It's the Milkman Not the Milk Who Gets Bottled Up

By LOUIS GRANGER
(Mercury Staff Writer)

Lo, the poor milkman.

Charged with rising before the birds, which they say is what it's for, to deliver the purest of dairy products to Pottstown families, he often must become a mind reader, linguist and animal feeder.

And like it or not, he must sometimes defend himself against unfound accusations, and turn detective.

William C. Yeager, sales supervisor for Levengood dairies recalls the following notable notes.

ONE HOMEMAKER who lives out on Route 100 explained via a note stuffed into a milk bottle, that she and her family were taking a three week vacation and that they would not need the usual delivery.

But, she added, the cat is staying home.

"Please leave two strips of bacon and half a pint of cream every day. Put the cream in the yeflow dish and put it near the tree so the cat can eat," the note read.

And who else except a housewife would leave a note to her husband in the same bottle with a note to the milkman?

"Honey," the note began. "Take the wash down." Below the signature, Peaches, another line to the milkman, "leave two quarts of milk."

'Faithful Charlie' Injured in Fall

"Faithful Charlie of The Hill school" fell and suffered a cut forehead Monday.

Faithful Charlie is Charles Ellwanger, perhaps the hardest laboring man at age 90 in this county.

A Mercury story last year noted that the Hill school resident splits two cords of wood and scythes three acres of grass in a day.

Ellwanger was at his prodigious chores Monday, when he slipped and struck his head on a stone. He was treated at Memorial hospital and was discharged.

A few hours later he was back on the job.

Pie Firm Gets Alteration Permit

Mrs. Smith's Pie company received a building permit Monday for $26,000.

The firm will alter and repair its refrigerators at South Charlotte and Water streets. Doing the job will be Charles E. Frederick, contractor from 212 Henry street.

Building inspector Lewis J. Kirby also issued two more construction permits Monday. One was for a $12,500 home at 818 Spruce street. The work will be done by contractor Frank Hutt, 1117 High street.

A. P. Hagenbuch, 10 East Eighth street, will erect a $10,500 home on the 800 block of Willow street.

Chickens Returned To Zern Property

Warren Zern, Pottstown contractor who suffered an estimated loss of $50,000 Sunday when his barn was destroyed by fire, managed to retrieve some 250 chickens that flew their coop during the fire.

They all settled at Pottsgrove High school and were returned early Monday morning.

Sgt. Edward Mays, State trooper from Belmont barracks, will continue today a probe of the fire's cause.

"There is some possibility of arson, but damage is so great that finding the cause of fire is difficult," said Mays.

PLANNING OF BYPASS IN FINAL STAGE

Meeting Launches Project For Route 422

Work began Monday on the last stage before the actual start of construction on the Route 422 bypass with a conference in the offices of Turnpike Engineers, incorporated, the Philadelphia firm planning the $15 million limited access highway.

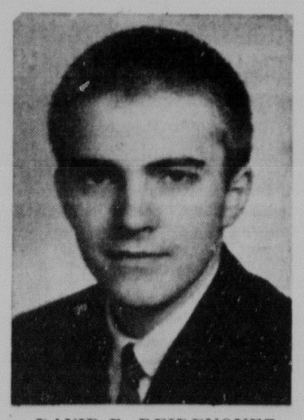

This stage involves the preparation of condemnation and construction plans for the bypass which is expected to handle 15,000 cars and trucks daily.

The conference was presided over by Ross W. Ritter, engineer in charge of the 9.46 mile highway which is expected to eliminate through truck and car traffic on High street and facilitate transportation from area industry to major arteries.

Turnpike Engineers also handled the first two phases of the project—mapping out a proposed route and engineering interchanges, traffic movement and the final route of the multi-million dollar highway.

The bypass will be four lanes with a grass remedial strip and a 60 mile per hour speed limit. It will rear the western boundary of the Pottstown airport in Limerick and rejoin Route 422 at Douglassville in the west.

This phase of planning is expected to take a year, according to Paul L. Thomas, assistant district engineer in design, State Highway deparment.

5 Pottstown Pupils Write Local Government Treatise

It took five Pottstown High school Senior Honor pupils to do what no one else, young or old, has thought to do in Pottstown's long history.

They wrote a treatise on the government of the borough, described by their teacher and borough officials as a valuable reference book.

The 43 page manual, with 29 pages of exhibits added, is apparently the first comprehensive, single volume explaining in detail the operation of Pottstown's government.

Borough manager Robert H. McKinney Jr. thinks so much of it he is having copies made which he said could be given to new councilmen.

OTHER COPIES will be placed in school libraries as a ready reference book.

The pupils, all 1960 graduates of the college preparatory curriculum, are Paul Rutter, David Reidenouer, Lane Daylor, Carol Lasky and Patricia Piersol.

William H. McCabe, their problems of democracy instructor, suggested they look into such an effort in fulfillment of a term paper requirement.

Missionary from Nigeria Tells Of Calm Independence Moves

Stories of turmoil and chaos throughout Africa, where countries are gaining independence in wholesale fashion, are not accurate reflections of every new state in that continent.

Nigeria, a land with partial independence only a year old, gained its individuality without upheaval, terrorism or even misunderstanding.

The Rev. Wilbur Martin, pastor of the Brethren in Christ church here 11 years, recently returned from a mission in Nigeria.

He told The Mercury first hand Monday what it is like to live in an infant nation where democracy found its own way calmly, and is succeeding.

THE REV. Martin's immediate concern—the success of Christianity—also is gaining ground in an atmosphere where the country's natives are communicative and friendly with their many American friends.

Nigeria's 40 million persons make it the most populous nation in Africa. It is divided into Northern, Eastern and Western Nigeria.

Northern Nigeria is larger than the other two sections combined, and a shade smaller than Texas. The Brethren church, carrying on missionary work in the country since 1922, is active in Northern Nigeria.

This section has enjoyed self government since March 15, 1959. It governs itself in every respect except military, police and internal relations and is under the jurisdiction of England.

THE REV. MARTIN is chaplain of the Hillcrest school in Jos, a plateau town in a tin mining area in Northern Nigeria. The Hillcrest school is conducted mainly for the children of missionaries, with Mohammedans, Lebanese and British attending.

He painted a picture of the country, and said conditions in Nigeria resembled those elsewhere in Africa, with the exception that the transition to self-government is peaceable.

British success in previously giving Ghana independence probably carried the experiment into Nigeria.

"Nigeria is making tremendous strides," said Rev. Martin,

Arms Talks Collapse

Western Delegates Say Commie Move Was 'Hooliganism'

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet-led Communist bloc walked out of the 10-nation disarmament talks Monday in a tumult of shouted Western charges of hooliganism and scandal.

The walkout stamped a finish to the hopes of slowing down the arms and nuclear weapons races for the present.

An all-Western rump conference continued to sit after the walkout to assess the damage.

The five Western delegates branded as illegal the adjournment of the conference by the day's chairman, Polish Deputy Foreign Minister Marian Naszkowski, while they were vainly clamoring for the floor.

But their decision to meet again Tuesday on the slim hope that the Reds would show up was mainly reminiscent of the Western summit leaders' wait in Paris in mid-May for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to come around after his lashings at President Eisenhower.

A Communist source said the continued sitting by Britain, France, the United States, Italy and Canada was utterly ludicrous.

The tumult over the dramatic walkout was disclosed in the verbatim record released Monday night.

Naszkowski called on his four Communist colleagues one by one, then spoke himself, to justify the walkout. The record then went like this:

"Naszkowski: 'That was my statement in my capacity as representative of Poland. Now, as chairman, I should like to say that, after the statements made by the representatives of the five Socialist (Communist) states, the work of the 10-nation committee is now discontinued, and it is quite clear that the role of the chairman has been exhausted.'"

The representatives of Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Romania and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics started to withdraw from the meeting.

"Jules Moch (France): 'On a point of order, Mr. Chairman. I asked you to recognize me. I asked you to recognize me. I asked to speak, Mr. Chairman. Do you know the rules of procedure? What a scandal.'

"David Ormsby-Gore (Britain): 'A point of order, Mr. Chairman.'

"Frederick M. Eaton (United States): 'Point of order.'"

Moch called the attitude and walkout of the Communist delegates a scandal . . . hooliganism . . . a shameful performance."

He asked Ormsby-Gore, the next on the alphabetic list of rotating chairmen, to preside.

Ormsby-Gore, at the suggestion of Moch, directed that the press be admitted and declared that that had been no general agreement to discontinue the conference.

Khrushchev accused the West Monday night of torpedoing the conference with futile discussion.

In a note to President Eisenhower and to Britain and France, broadcast by Moscow, Khrushchev said Western disarmament proposals were a plan for legalized military espionage. The United States made it plain at the abortive summit meeting in Paris, he said, that it did not intend to break the disarmament deadlock.

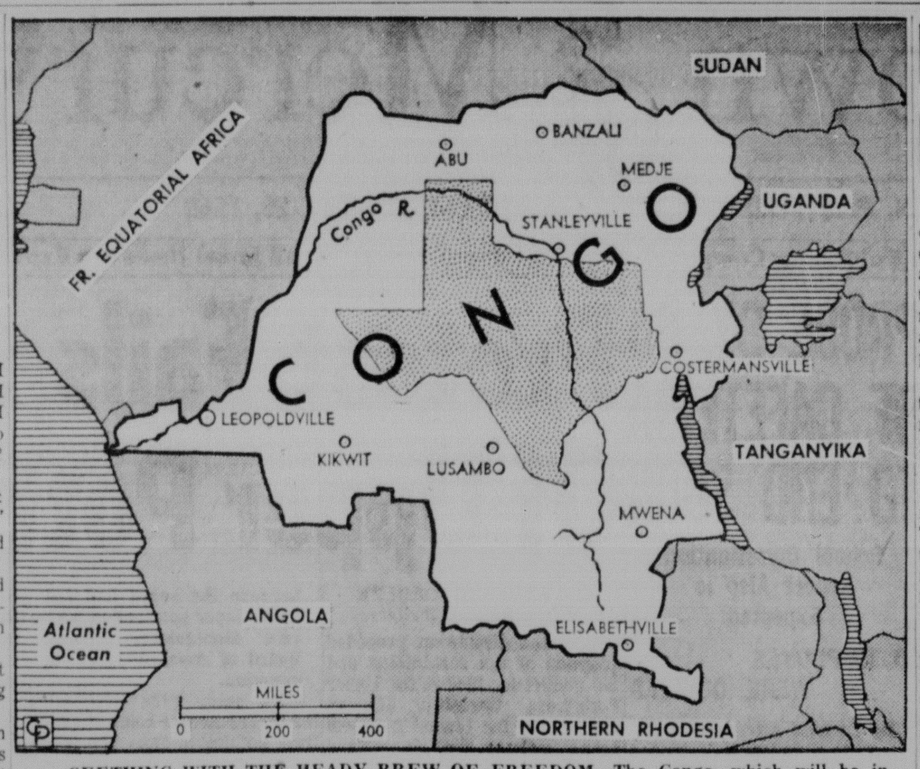

Cuba Declares U. S. Sugar Act Economic War

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government Monday night assailed as "a declaration of economic war" a vote by the U.S. House Agricultural Committee giving President Eisenhower authority to fix sales of Cuban sugar in the United States.

Minister of Commerce Raul Cepero Bonilla declared "the attack on the economy and national sovereignty . . . will not go unanswered."

Prime Minister Fidel Castro last Friday warned that American properties here would be seized in the same proportion that Cuban sugar quotas in the United States are reduced.

Bonilla said Monday night that Cuba is fixing a minimum price of three cents a pound for its sugar sold on the world market.

Bangala Tribesmen Threaten Revolt; Congo Republic President Is Sworn

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo (AP) — Joseph Kasavubu was sworn in as first President of the Republic of Congo Monday and was quickly faced with a threat of secession by angrily rallying Bangala tribesmen.

The republic does not actually become independent of Belgian colonial rule until Thursday.

The Bangala, angry because Jean Bolikango of the Puna party was not made president or even a member of the government, held a stormy meeting Monday night on a sandy sidewalk outside party headquarters in a suburb.

About 5,000 Africans crowded about the dilapidated, palm-shaded house and on its roof. They shouted and gesticulated, and some carried rocks and long knives. About 50 police with long bayonets surrounded the meeting.

A banner strung between trees said, "Down with the puppet government of Lumumba." Patrice Lumumba is Premier.

When Bolikango drove up in his car, some of his supporters went wild with excitement and carried him shoulder-high to a table where he made a speech.

With tears rolling down his cheeks, Bolikango said he was so fed up with the way his people had been treated that he proposed setting up an autonomous state in the northwest Congo so that the Bangala could rule themselves without interference from the central government.

The announcement was cheered lustily. The crowd then dispersed without using its rocks and knives.

The scene was near where Bangala tribesmen engaged in skirmishes Saturday when six persons were injured.

There are about 40,000 Bangala in Leopoldville. They have long been known for their services in the Belgian Congo's armed forces and for their cooperation with Belgian authorities.

Bolikango claims the Bangala have been shabbily treated by not being represented in the new government.

President Kasavubu in taking the oath of office swore to fight "sickness, hunger and misery."

"I consider myself the first servant of the nation and the first servant of our new state—may God help me in the heavy task I have been given," Kasavubu told a joint session in Parliament.

The new president declared the republic will need foreign aid, but said it must be accepted only from countries "whose relations with us will not be dangerous and lead us into new bondage." This was regarded by some listeners as a warning to the Soviet Union not to interfere in Congo affairs.

Sister Kenny Polio Fund Misuse Charged By Attorney General

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Money donated for polio victims was misused by improper administration of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation, Minnesota's attorney general charged Monday.

He threatened to take the foundation into court to recover the funds unless the board of directors acts on its own. At the same time, four medical staff members of the foundation said they will quit unless there is an overhaul of the board.

Among the figures named in the report are Marvin Kline, 57, executive director of the Minneapolis-based foundation for 14 years, who the attorney general said drew $604,500 in salaries and other benefits in his 14 years in the post; Fred Fadell & Associates, Minneapolis public relations firm; and a Chicago direct-mail concern.

Alleging that money raised in the foundation's national fund campaigns had been improperly diverted, Atty. Gen. Walter Mondale reported:

1. Only 1½ per cent of the $1,542,639 raised in a 1956 fall campaign was used for medical purposes, the rest going for promotion, mailing and other expenses listed as part of the campaign.

2. Only 47 per cent of some 30 million dollars raised from 1952 to 1959 was used for hospitalization, treatment, research and training facilities.

Mondale's report, based on a four-month investigation, made it clear the foundation's medical service, staff and record were not being challenged. These were, in fact, praised.

"But there have been irregularities in the administration of the business affairs of the foundation," he said.

The county attorney's office in Minneapolis will have to decide whether criminal action will be brought, he said.

Directors of the foundation met Monday to discuss the report. The acting executive director, Dr. E. J. Huenekens, who is also medical director, said he wasn't invited.

Huenekens was named to replace Kline several months ago when the latter resigned: Kline, former Minneapolis mayor, was hospitalized for many weeks with illness and was reported by his wife Monday as being sick in bed and unable to comment. Fadell and officers of the Chicago firm also were unavailable for comment.

Soviet Union Dickers For Building in Congo

Eisenhower Reviews His Trips; Blames Reds for Jap Bypass

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Monday night defended his globe-trotting personal diplomacy. He portrayed his trips as so successful "I would not hesitate a second" to venture abroad again in quest of world peace.

In a radio-TV report to the nation, Eisenhower blamed "Communist-inspired riots" for blocking his visit to Japan.

But he said ratification of the new U.S.-Japanese Security Treaty—which the rioters sought to thwart—was "a signal defeat for international communism that far outweighs" the blocking of his visit.

Eisenhower reported he has no plans for further foreign journies during his remaining months in the White House. But he made plain he would not be dissuaded by any Red-promoted opposition.

The United States must "never be bluffed, cajoled, blinded or frightened" by Red tactics aimed at splitting the free world, he said.

He declared the value of his visit to 27 countries since he took office in 1953 has been proved by what he said was a Communist decision some time ago to oppose his goodwill tours.

The President appealed to Americans not to allow "the unhappy events of the past several weeks in Japan" to impair U.S.-Japanese trade relations or weaken the friendship "which unites the vast majority of the Japanese and American people."

Eisenhower spoke a day after returning from a two-week journey to the Philippines, Formosa, South Korea and U. S.-held Okinawa.

His planned visit to Japan was called off after Japanese mobs, opposing a new security treaty with the United States, had created near-chaos there.

The President attacked what he termed Communist-inspired demonstrations against his trip. He also gave a basic defense of his undertakings in personal diplomacy since he came to the White House in 1953.

He noted that now, since he is near the end of his presidential terure, the prospects are he will not be going abroad as president again.

By implication, Eisenhower also rebuffed criticism from some Democrats in the aftermath of the summit conference blowup and the cancellation of his Japanese visit.

"We cannot win out against the Communist purpose to dominate the world by being timid, passive, or apologetic when we are acting in our own and the free world's interests," Eisenhower said. "We must accept the risks of bold action with coolness and courage. . . .

"All the profit gained by past and any possible future trips (by U.S. leaders) will be quickly dissipated should we Americans abandon our present course in foreign relations or slacken our efforts in cooperative programs with our friends. . . ."

Then Eisenhower, noting he has been to 27 countries as president, added this "personal word":

"So far as any future visits of my own are involved, I have no plans, no other particular trip in mind. Considering the shortness of the time before next January, and the unavoidable preoccupations of the few months remaining, it would be difficult to accept any invitation for me, again, to go abroad.

"But so long as the threat of Communist domination may hang over the free world, I believe that any future president will conclude that reciprocal visits by heads of friendly governments have great value in promoting free world solidarity.

"And this I assure you:

"If any unforeseen situation or circumstances arising in the near future should convince me that another journey of mine would still further strengthen the bonds of friendship between us and others, I would not hesitate a second in deciding to make still an additional effort of this kind.

"No consideration of personal fatigue or inconvenience, no threat or argument would deter me from once again setting out on a course that has meant much for our country, for her friends, and for the cause of freedom—and peace with justice in the world."

As for his Far Eastern trip of 23,000 miles, Eisenhower said he concluded that:

1. U.S. relations with the Philippines, Formosa, South Korea and Okinawa have been strengthened.

2. The people of these Far Eastern lands demonstrated anew "Their long and ardent friendship with and for the people of America" — demonstrations he called heartwarming to himself and the American people.

3. The ratification of the U.S.-Japanese Security Treaty—which went through despite the left wing demonstrations — "represents an important victory for the free world — a defeat for international communism."

But they are going to meet Tuesday with the uncommitted governors of two other states—Kansas and Iowa—for a favorite-sons political seance.

The session will bring together Govs. Edmund G. Brown of California, Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, George Docking of Kansas, and Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa. This is a key quartet. Among them, these governors will lead to the Democratic convention at Los Angeles next month delegations with 169 of the 761 votes needed to swing the presidential nomination.

Supporters of Kennedy contend the Massachusetts senator already has more than 700 votes in sight. But that includes some they are counting already from the four uncommitted states.

Typhoon Olive Claims Hundreds In Philippines

MANILA (AP)—Typhoon Olive hacked across the island of Luzon Monday with 80-mile winds and slashing rain, leaving at least 100 reported dead and hundreds missing. It was the Philippines second major weather disaster in a month.

Valuable coconut trees, crops, homes and schools were blown down and washed away throughout southern Luzon. Bridges and roads were out. Tens of thousands of persons were homeless. Property damage soared.

The typhoon boiled off across the China Sea.

Manila, a metropolis of two million, was partly paralyzed. Its water supply was cut sharply.

The typhoon slashed within a dozen miles of Manila early Monday, almost exactly a month after flash floods roared through the city last May 28, leaving nearly 200 dead and extensive damage.

Ample warning held the casualty toll down in the Manila area.

The picturesque resort and port city of Legaspi, 150 miles to the southeast, was hit hard.

Legaspi lies in the shadow of cone-shaped Mt. Mayon, known as the "tropical Fuijiyama." Sixty persons were reported dead in Legaspi and the surrounding province of Albay.

Another 21 were reported dead in the nearby provinces of Camarines Sur and Camarines Norte.

Chiropractic's Contribution to a National Health Problem

War, with all its terror and hardship, produces incapacitating mental and nervous strain. The "National Mental Health Act" owes its existence to this fact. The act is designed to aid in the development of more effective methods of prevention, diagnosis and treatment of mental disorders. It provides for research and the co-ordination of this research to an application of the results obtained.

There is a critical and growing need for a more extensive and efficacious mental health service. The grave problem of mental illness calls for greater co-operation among all branches of the healing arts, in the interest of public health and welfare.

The National Chiropractic Association, through its National Council on Psychotherapy, has co-ordinated its efforts in this field, and has made excellent progress. Chiropractic approaches these problems on the independent assumption — now an established fact—that much emotional illness stems from nerve irritations created by distortions of the spinal column, which can be more effectively corrected through the physical, mechanical and neurological approach.

The contribution of chiropractic in the field of mental hygiene speak for themselves. Case history surveys, conducted by independent organizations, have shown that chiropractic treatment has achieved eminently successful results in the correction of many mental and nervous disorders.

Worthy of note is the fact that early treatment under chiropractic care, reduces the need for institutional confinement, and the resultant lightening of the load on these already overtaxed institutions.

Get well—keep well—through chiropractic.

"New Fund Raising Ideas for Clubs"

Club officers have been after me for new ways to raise club funds. It took time to find any new solutions to this old problem. But at last I have for you some effective new ways to raise club funds.

I'll skip all the old standbys, the raffles, the turkey shoots, the church suppers.

The men's club of a downtown church in New York City needed funds under crash program conditions. It was a church where very few of the men worked on Saturdays. Therefore, on Monday morning a committee from the church went down to the government employment agency and asked if they could find work for every man in the club for one day next Saturday.

"Well, when you're only going to work one day," the man explained, looking at their suits, "You don't get very fancy jobs. But there is an area of employment called spot labor. Calls come in for one man for two hours, three hours, eight hours. The agency sends out a man. He works. Gets paid right on the spot. That's why they call it spot labor."

E. Paul Oliphant

The church men reported in Saturday morning, 280 of them.

The jobs were rough, dish washing, unloading trucks, hauling rubbish. But the men's club raised $970.36 in one day.

A church in Kansas City needed funds. A businessman on the vestry came up with a unique fund raising idea. The church took $6000 from it's general fund, used it as a partial payment on a used power shovel. Borrowed the balance from the bank. There were some other outlays necessary for insurance and repairs. Then they leased the shovel to small contractors. The shovel has been busy constantly, except for three months.

Here's another one. A sportsman's club in Kentucky needed some fair-sized money for a club house addition. Eight club members had three-week vacations, one had a four-week vacation. These 9 men volunteered to work one week of their vacations at odd jobs and turn in the money to the club. They had four men who were retired. These men volunteered to work a month. The others worked two weeks of nights.

A woman's club in Lakewood, Ohio, started a catering service to furnish hor-d'oevers to the three churches in the neighborhood. A men's lodge in Akron put on a very well rehearsed circus using domestic animals and internal acts.

A young women's club in Cincinnati had three advanced amateur photographers in it. They rented a medium sized elephant and took pictures of children riding the elephant. They would call for the child and return him home after the picture was taken.

I have collected a few more good ideas, but I want to check them out to see if they actually made good profits for the clubs. Will report later.

NOTE: For financial advice or banking services, you are cordially invited to consult Mr. Oliphant or his executive assistants Harold E. Arbogast and Joseph Hutt, at Security Trust Company, High and Hanover Sts., Pottstown.

Adventists' 15th Annual Convention Will Start

The usual calm and quiet Manatawny Valley northwest of Pottstown will be humming with activity this week as the 15th annual Summer convention of the Allegheny conference of Seventh-day Adventists gets under way Thursday night.

Delegates from seven eastern states and the District of Columbia will move into tents and cabins on the sprawling camp grounds for daily meetings, fellowship, and business sessions.

The eighth biennial constituency business session is scheduled this year. Up for election are all staff members of the Allegheny Conference a jurisdictional unit of the Adventist church for colored Adventist church members in seven eastern states and the District of Columbia.

A virtual "city" has come up practically overnight at the Pine Forge campus, adjacent to the headquarters office of the Allegheny conference. Also situated on the same campus is the Pine Forge institute Adventist co-educational secondary school.

THE "CITY" includes more than 200 family-style tents; a number of new motel-style cabins; a main 3000 seat canvas pavilion where main meetings are held five times daily; a grocery store; a Book and Bible house; several large circus-like tents for children's meetings; sanitary buildings; departmental and promotion tents; and a large dining room cafeteria.

Billed as one of the main speakers this coming week-end will be the former Governor of Maryland, Theodore R. McKeldin, of Baltimore, Md., a gifted public speaker and outstanding civic official.

He will be making his first appearance at the Pine Forge campus and is scheduled to address the delegation on Saturday night, July 2.

The main item of business during the first two days of the ten-day parley will be the election of officers for a coming two-year period. Present officers include William L. Cheatham, president; William A. Thompson, secretary-treasurer; Addison V. Pinkney, secretary of the youth, Educational Temperance and Radio-TV Departments; C. M. Mills, Secretary of the Publishing department; L. W. Brantley, manager of the Book and Bible house; and Donald B. Simons, Secretary of the Home Missionary and Sabbath School departments.

THEODORE R. McKELDIN

THE OPENING and keynote address will be given by President Cheatham on Thursday night. Meetings will continue daily until Sunday, July 10.

Separate meetings are held every day for children and youth of the conference. The youth meetings will be conducted by Pinkney and D. B. Simons.

A highlight of the conference is the publication of the tenth anniversary souvenir edition of The Mercury. More than 5000 copies are sold on the campground for distribution to members in seven states.

Delegates will come to Pottstown and Pine Forge from many areas for ten days of spiritual uplift and fellowship. The program is planned so that they will not go away disappointed.

The future that we study and plan for begins today. — (Chester O. Fischer)

Didn't Pottstown Have Fun?

POTTSTOWN staged a Roman holiday on what started to be a quiet Sunday early evening. No Christians were thrown to the lions in the Colosseum, but Pottstown did lose all sense of good manners in a wild scramble to get to a fire spectacle.

The spine-tingling opportunity for a thrill on a warm, lazy Summer night was exploded by thrill-riding ambulance drivers, who shuttled back and forth on heavily trafficked streets with sirens wailing high, wide and handsome to chill the senses of the delicate, to arouse animal instincts in the morbidly curious.

The event that set off this human scramble was a barn fire on the property of Builder Warren B. Zern on North Charlotte street, just north of the Pottstown borough boundary line.

The fire attracted attention because of huge clouds of black, billowing smoke. But the fire might have destroyed its course into the foundations of the structure without an abnormally large crowd getting into firemen's way had it not been for the eerie whining of the ambulance sirens pouring out their horror on the still Sunday evening air.

The firemen got to the fire scene with a minimum of clatter.

But two ambulances screamed so insistently so long and so horribly that the populace was charged to fever heat.

"Certainly there's been a dread disaster," they reasoned. And then they hopped into their automobiles, drove at breakneck speed through stop signs and on side roads to block all avenues of traffic.

These ambulances careened wildly in the center of the street as they transported six heat and smoke-stricken firemen to the Pottstown hospital. Because these rabid fire-eaters dropped over one at a time, the ambulances made six trips.

Their loud alarms were made louder because a second ambulance was called to the scene. This was a "standby" vehicle while the other was ferrying the smoke-eaters to the dispensary where their lungs were purged of impurities.

So everyone in his right senses knew none of the felled firemen was near death. So a matter of three seconds saved in transit to the hospital, or a matter of minutes at the most, didn't make any difference. But those ambulance men just opened the sirens' throb and cracked the welkin with a din that was heard for miles around.

Why must this happen? A soft warning would have sent the thrill-seeking motorists to the curb. It hardly was necessary for the ambulances to break all speed records by bashing their way into a third lane between two heavily-jammed lines of traffic.

As for the curiosity seekers, they hardly set examples for good manners, or for gentlemanly or ladylike assistance to the harassed firemen.

Some motorists drove into private lanes on the Zern farm. They blocked the roads so badly that some cars had to be moved so that ambulances could get on the scene.

They got into the way of firemen. Because it was early evening and the whole family was enjoying a satisfying respite from a hard day's recreation and a heavy meal, Pop and Mom brought the kids along to the display. They all piled into cars.

Old men and old women drove the big and little cars, all wild with expectancy. Kids piled into the front and into the rear seat. Some of the spectators looked like they had just come from swimming parties. They still were in scant attire. Others were dressed to the hilt in Sunday-Go-to-meeting suits and frocks that indicated they broke away from vesper services.

When they got to the fire, they let their kids scramble over the fire apparatus, play a walk the chalk line sort of game over the hard hoses. Had one of those lines broken, those kids would have been killed!

The adults just massed all over the countryside, forming a tight cordon that snagged the firefighters.

It was a holiday that presented a grave study in mass psychology. It wasn't to Pottstown's credit. And all this happened without a fire alarm being sounded, just the lorelei ambulance sirens that lured the curious to a sad spectacle.

What is happening to this world when we have nothing better to do than to gawk at the misfortune of others?

When will people learn, especially public officials and public workers who should know better? Not as long as the curious are aroused by siren-happy ambulancemen. There ought to be a law to stop this sort of thing.

PUNKIN CORNERS,

Editor, The Mercury,
Dear Sir 'n' Brother:

Wal, I see by the papers where a bandit suspect who claims to be a descendant of the late Jesse James got himself caught by Kansas cops. If Old Jess knew about this he sure would disown him!

Those two British sergeants who hiked across the U.S. in a record 67 days say they wouldn't do it again. Guess they figure they've seen everything.

And say: Too many household chores can be bad for a child, says a Pennsylvania professor. For one thing it cuts terribly into his TV watching time.

Hopin' you air the same,

Flag to be Revered, Not Soiled

Praises Picture Coverage

To the Editor: The Mercury should be commended for its front page photo of a desecrated flag last Saturday.

Whoever in Chester county bought the American flag and then draped it over trash was dead wrong and The Mercury was right in bringing the act to public notice.

People who buy the flag can't say it is theirs no matter what price they pay for it. The flag really belongs to 180 million other Americans.

It symbolizes national independence and stands for humanity and equal opportunity. The flag fortells the triumph of all popular governments and of civic and religious liberty throughout the world.

The flag should be respected.

Pottstown EDWARD PLOWFIELD

Alice Would Be Amazed

To the Editor: Alice in Wonderland never saw a world half as wonderful or half as strange as that of baseball.

Within 48 hours four teams paid five teen-agers $420,000 to sign contracts. That's an average of $84,000.

The Cubs are said to have paid a 17-year-old pitcher $125,000. And it's a sporting proposition that he may be driven off the mound by Class D sluggers.

Even Hollywood at its gaudiest was never like this. The impresarios always were sure of getting a few films out of a starlet, whether she could act or not.

Under the circumstances, it's a wonder how career consultants stay in business.

What other choice than baseball can a youngster make unless he is a 4F? All the money, and your name in the paper too, and press agents to keep it there. And still more money if you really can pitch, or hit, or run.

Yet the baseball scouts complain that they can't find enough youngsters to staff two major leagues, let alone a third one.

It's a wonder beyond comprehension. In fact, sometimes it seems downright foolish.

Pottstown FAN

Likes to Can Canned Music

To the Editor: I just stopped patronizing a local store that insisted on blaring its radio all day long. I hate canned music, and I can't stand the stupid commercials with it.

If I'm going to listen to music, it will be in my home and of my own selection. I'm opposed to it in supermarkets especially. There's enough confusion there already.

Pottstown CHARLES HASTEN

Stench in Suburbs

To the Editor: Sometimes in our area of our lovely suburb we feel we live on the edge of a city dump. It seems some of our neighbors burn garbage they do not want to put in their disposals—and sometimes it smells as though they try to burn rubbish that should be hauled away.

This odor, added to the exhaust (and noise) of numerous power mowers often makes meals in our yard misery instead of pleasure.

Would it be possible for the various townships to forbid the burning of any trash—except quick burning papers—from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.?

Pottstown RD LEE MALONE

The Porpoises of Life

To the Editor: The world is coming to quite a pass.

On one hand, we have some intricate devices that look like gigantic kitchen sieves but are actually straining to hear words from life in outer space.

On the other hand, we are getting to the point where we may be talking to porpoises and finding out what they think of life.

I saw an article in the paper that explained porpoises already have a better range-finding setup than do humans.

So maybe when we finally are able to strike up a conversation with them, we'll find that they and some weird creatures from Mars have been gossiping about us for centuries.

Pottstown LEW EMOC

Just a Reunion

To the Editor: At the rate automation is going, I predict that when the world is finally invaded from outer space, there'll be no problems at all.

The mechanical monsters from space will look around and see a world full of cousins. There won't be any war, just an old-fashioned family reunion.

LEO DUROCHER is anxious, to put it mildly, to land the job of managing the Giants. He has friends all over the country petitioning Horace Stoneham to appoint Leo to the post—their big pitch being that with his marital problems off his mind he'll be "a new man."

Jack Durant, scheduled to open at the Latin Quarter, couldn't because of a ruptured blood vessel in his throat.

TV PRODUCERS who sometimes use Chinese actors to portray Japanese characters have been feeling pressure from the State department to hire Japanese actors whenever possible. If this trend gains momentum, the whole system of theatrical casting will be in trouble: Marlon Brando, for instance, wouldn't have been chosen for "The Young Lions," because he isn't really a Nazi, and Laurence Harvey couldn't have played his marvelous performance in "Room at the Top" because he isn't a born Britisher.

A crowd of Las Vegas boys, who have the habit of knowing the score came to New York for the big fight and cleaned up a fortune betting on Floyd Patterson at the last minute.

Former Tammany boss Frank Sampson, who put over New York's greatest political upset—the election of Vincent Impelliteri as mayor—has struck it rich in an odd field.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

MY GRANDMA Crane died at 95. During the last few years she was confined to her chair most of the time and had been failing in both her vision and hearing.

She was restless at night and often awakened in a mental fog. She would talk aloud to herself and even show brief periods of apparent irrationality.

But when my father and mother would visit her, she would be quite rational. My aunt complained about her talkativeness and the wild stories that she told, but Grandma would be quite lucid whenever she had company.

"You must think I am a fibber," my aunt finally explained, "for when you folks come down for a visit, she is always perfectly well behaved and rational."

AS OUR grandparents grow elderly, they tend to have hardening of the arteries. This arteriosclerosis, as it is technically named, reduces the nourishment of the brain.

Elderly people thus may have fits of irrationality, and talk aloud at night as if they are in a dream.

A friend recently called me to look at her aged mother who is past 80.

"Mother is irrational in the morning," this friend explained. "She may even accuse me of poisoning her food for she develops all sorts of delusions.

"But after lunch she seems to be perfectly normal and to have forgotten her illogical talk of the morning.

"And if guests come in, even during the morning, she may be quite rational and pleasant. Dr. Crane, how do you account for her afternoon rationality following her morning irrationality?"

THIS LADY reacts to guests, much as my grandmother would pep up when she was visited by friends and relatives.

The presence of visitors is a mental and emotional tonic to everybody. It speeds up the heart beat and raises the blood pressure.

These two physiological effects produce an increased blood flow to the brain. If the latter has been somewhat arteriosclerotic and has thus lacked enough food or oxygen to function rationally, the tonic of having guests in the house may be just enough to produce the desired change.

A certain minimum amount of blood to the brain is always necessary for rationality. If this minimum is not met with, we are asleep, or dream or talk irrationally.

Inside Television

By EVE STARR

STARR REPORT: Emmy was a quiet little girl this year. The TV awards bearing her name caused about as much of a stir as a pebble thrown into the wind-swept Pacific.

During the few weeks before the big annual awards show there was virtually no talk about it. And on the day of the show itself, all the talk centered on the Johansson-Patterson heavyweight title fight.

Emmy was a wallflower this time around.

One newspaper friend of mine elected to watch the title fight at a Hollywood theater, rushing out to NBC, Burbank, as soon as it was over to cover the Emmy show.

HE ARRIVED at the studio a few minutes after the last award had been made and suddenly realized he didn't have the faintest idea what had been going on or who had won all the major Emmys.

He buttonholed the first person he saw and said quickly, "Who won?" After getting an unbelieving look, he got his answer, "Why, Patterson in the fifth!"

After the show at the crowded party for the nominees, their guests and the press, winners and losers milled about, the winners with the dangerously sharp pronged Emmys tucked under their arms, creating a constant threat for those who ventured too close.

JANE WYATT, winner of the best series actress award, kept muttering to herself, "I beat Loretta Young, I beat Loretta Young." Finally she came face to face with Loretta herself and said it all over again.

"I just can't get over it," she beamed at her friendly rival. "I beat you — Loretta Young!" It was probably the nicest compliment Loretta had all night.

Dinah Shore, who struck out at both the TV Guide Awards and the Emmys, philosophically allowed this just wasn't her year. The five-time Emmy winner shrugged prettily and said, "I lost three times tonight. The Dodgers lost, Johansson lost—and I lost."

Dinah was particularly upset about Johansson because he had guested on her show and they had become good friends.

Interpreting The News

Farm Program Faces Big Test

By ARTHUR EDSON
(Associated Press Observer)

The first big senatorial test of the administration's farm policy arrives Tuesday, with both Republicans and Democrats bravely predicting victory.

Gov. John E. Davis, 47, Republican, and Rep. Quentin N. Burdick (D-ND), 52, meet in a special election for the Senate seat left vacant by the death of that old maverick, Sen. William Langer (R-ND).

A Burdick victory would be looked on as eloquent testimony that the Republicans may be in for real farm belt trouble in the presidential election in November.

A Davis victory would be pointed to as evidence that other issues also carry weight in the farm country and that maybe more farmers like Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson than the Democrats will ever admit.

Everyone agrees that this could be a real close one. The demand for absentee ballots indicates considerable interest, and the total vote may run somewhere around 200,000, large for a June primary in North Dakota.

Generally fair weather is forecast.

Curiously, both sides use the same figure in predicting victory: 10,000 votes. Privately, both will tell you they're worried about this one and would gladly settle for a lot less.

Both Davis and Burdick spent part of their last campaign day in North Dakota's largest city. Both appeared on television, and both tried hard to make sure that no hand remained unshaken.

This has been less colorful than North Dakota campaigns of the past—neither Davis nor Burdick is of the pour-it-on school of oratory—but the party work has been far more intense. Both sides have organized and worked in the precincts as never before.

On the farm program so important here, Davis and Burdick seem as alike as two grains in a head of wheat. Neither likes it. But Burdick contends that Davis was slow in disowning Benson and that if Davis wins, it will mean that city congressmen will see even less reason to fret about the farm program.

The complicating factor in North Dakota politics is the Nonpartisan League.

The 40 years its candidates — who were sometimes liberal or even radical by most political reckoning—ran in the Republican primary. Four years ago they switched to the Democrats.

This may have been the turning point for Burdick. He ran for office six times, and six times he lost.

Two years ago, with Nonpartisan League support, he became the first Democrat North Dakota never sent to the House.

Your Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOUR DUCT glands will keep you as comfortable as possible during the hot Summer months.

The duct glands—you may call them sweat glands—are the body's heat regulators. They are the most important part of the body's air conditioning system.

Each of us has millions of tiny pores which release perspiration upon the surface of the skin. The evaporation of this perspiration helps to cool us by lowering the body temperature.

When the temperature outside the body drops lower than your normal blood temperature of 98.6 degrees, the pores of these ducts close and halt the release of perspiration. Thus your skin then becomes an insulator for the body to protect it against chilling.

With all these millions of openings on the surface of the skin, you might think that the body would be extremely vulnerable to a mass invasion of germs. Well, nature thought of this before you did. The tiny tubes are of a semi-corkscrew shape. This prevents any contaminating materials from seeping in from the outside.

While frequent bathing is desirable—even essential—all year long, it becomes more so during the warm Summer months.

Sweat glands can easily become clogged with dirt unless care is taken to keep the face and body clean. The familiar blackhead is nothing but dirt packed hard into a sweat gland.

To keep your pores free of such dirt, I strongly suggest that you wash your face thoroughly with pure soap and warm water at least twice a day. Be sure to remove all the soap.

A daily bath is advisable, of course, and at least three baths a week are almost mandatory during the hot weather.

While the sun and warm weather tend to dry the skin, the sebaceous glands keep it from becoming too crisp. These are tiny sacs which open around the hair shafts. They secrete an oil substance called sebum which prevents the skin from drying.

These glands also tend to become clogged with dirt unless the skin is cleaned adequately. If your skin is exceptionally dry, you might use a little safe cleansing cream. Leave it on long enough to allow it to penetrate before wiping it off.

5 Pottstown Pupils Write Local Government Treatise

knew there was no such handy volume around. Even McCabe, who teaches the borough government, got it from his head, as he put it.

With their project and their purpose set down, the pupils consulted eight publications, ranging from the borough ordinances to "Criminal Law for the Minor Judiciary."

THE MEAT of the manual they were compiling came from interviews with 18 borough officials from Burgess John B. Hartenstine Jr. to a Justice of the Peace and a Constable.

The work took a month, and according to McCabe and the youths alike, the effort was shared equally among the quintet, which are all National Honor Society members.

Miss Piersol said the compilation and writing was not work at all. "It was very interesting, and we learned by doing."

McCabe graded the manual "A", and commented, "It was good work, and required a great deal of original research."

McKinney commended the pupils for contributing a "valuable background volume" with their work, and added that the big part was these young people are so interested in learning about their borough government.

THE VOLUME includes a brief history of the development of borough government. Following are descriptions of the jobs, responsibilities and powers of the various executive officials.

Included is the outline of the council system, including councilmen's duties and powers. The Justice of the Peace and Constable rate space, and there is an explanation of the budget.

The exhibits include forms required by the various departments such as the building inspector and health officer, pictures and explanations of the sewage treatment plant, and sample treasurer's reports and reports of bills.

McKinney, who along with McCabe earns the pupils' compliments for a great deal of assistance, will edit the manual and have it printed for future use by pupils, councilmen and others interested in learning quickly and briefly how Pottstown works.

$10,997 and the school board $10,000. This year, the State upped its gifts to approximately $12,500 and the commission expected at least $10,000 from the school board.

Instead, the school board appropriated $7500 to make $20,000 even. The commission must cut about $200 additional to balance income and expenses.

B. S. STURGES, who has been renting ground in Memorial park along West King street, where he keeps fuel oil storage tanks, informed the commission he will move the tanks this week.

The commission wants to develop the area, and wants to get the potentially dangerous tanks away from the small children playing there.

Two changes in the Summer playground staff were announced. Gladys Staverosky, 1466 Sunset drive, and Linwood Bechtel, 452 Chestnut street will be on the staff.

Jean Neff, 305 North Evans street, and Chester Kowalski, 64 South Charlotte street, are the previously named leaders being replaced at their own request.

THE PLAYGROUND season will begin with "institute," instruction of leaders in games and crafts, July 5 and 6. The playgrounds will be staffed for six weeks beginning Thursday, July 7, until August 12.

The commission set the wages for umpires in all recreation baseball leagues at $4.50 per game. The old rate was $4 per game.

The Hillcrest playground will be operated this year at its regular site, through the permission of Congregation Mercy and Truth synagog.

The congregation plans a new synagog for the site, but will not break ground until about August 15, after the playground season has ended.

The congregation has approved a free lease, and council will be asked to pass a resolution approving the transfer of borough liability coverage from The Hill school, the former owners, to the Congregation.

POTTSGROVE MANOR playground, planned for the end of Potts drive on Robinson Clay Product company land, may not open immediately with the beginning of the Summer activity season.

Borough council approved a resolution arranging for a lease agreement with Robinson Clay, and the lease papers are now in Akron, O., awaiting official okay from company chiefs.

The land must be cleared, levelled, and a drain installed before equipment can be moved in.

A FLOOD of 'phone calls hit The Mercury Friday to announce a block busting storm that swept over a large area.

One of the best ways to insure getting a news tip prize is to act fast. The first persons to inform The Mercury about a tornado in Eshbach was Mrs. Melvin Moyer, of the Eshbach hotel.

A team of reporters and a squad of photographers rushed to the stricken area. The erratic storm smashed a 15 mile course, and every inch of that area was covered by Mercury.

The chilling horror of witnesses and the colossal damage to property were read by thousands of people the next day. And Mrs. Moyer's brief 'phone call brought her $5.

A HOST OF calls about a shooting reached The Mercury June 20, but again, it was the first call that won a $3 prize.

Arthur Rapine, 540 North Keim street, earned the second news tip award with his quick call.

Shot in the back was Albert Kehler, Possom Hollow road. He was in critical condition until Monday. His daughter, Diane, 17, admits holding a shotgun that injured Kehler. Police still are investigating.

Mrs. Frank Snyder, Perkiomenville RD 1, saw an accident near her home last Saturday.

One hour and 20 minutes later another mishap occurred at the same place, the intersection of Route 663 and Deep Creek road.

Mrs. Snyder wrapped up both accidents with one call to The Mercury and won $2.

CALL THE Mercury with any news you might have. Stories or photos printed on any page are capable of cash prizes each week.

A confidential tip developed into a front page picture June 24. A Mercury tipster called to say that Old Glory was bedecked over a trash heap in North Coventry.

The desecration on Route 100 was recorded and won an honorable mention cash award.

A human interest story was good for another honorable mention cash prize for Mrs. Melvin Flood, 446 West Walnut street.

She informed The Mercury that an honor graduate from Boyertown Area High school underwent tricky heart surgery.

Bonnie Bauer, 34 South Franklin street, Boyertown, had her body frozen during an operation to mend a hole in her heart. A report of the girl's hopes, and of the surgery that will enable her to achieve her ambitions, were in Wednesday's edition.

A THIRD honorable mention cash prize was won by Mrs. Albert Istenes, Orlando road, Pottstown Route 18.

Mrs. Istenes won a race to telephones in her area to inform The Mercury about a barn fire.

The $50,000 blaze, fought by 110 men, gutted the uninsured barn of Warren Zern, North Charlotte street.

Be alert and be quick! Doing so can pay off handsomely in prizes.

JEWS PREPARE FOR 3 WEEK OBSERVANCE

Fasts Have Origin In War Against Romans

A three week period that opens and closes with fast days and that has symbolic meaning for Jewish history of the past 2500 years, will start two weeks from today.

The 17th day of the month of tammuz (Shiva Asur B'tammuz) falls on July 12, is followed by "three weeks of concern" for all Jews, and closes Aug. 2 with the fast of the ninth day of the month of Av.

The fasts will be observed by the Congregation Mercy and Truth synagog.

The fasts have their origin in the war against the Romans from 67 to 70 A.D. A revolt by Jews in Israel against the Romans was the culmination of a long series of difficulties between the Roman government and the Jewish people.

ROMAN SOLDIERS moved into Palestine from the north, taking city after city until the leaders of the revolt, the Zealos, were isolated in Jerusalem.

A siege of Jerusalem followed and became a long and bitter struggle. Famine plagued the Zealots, and after a long time they weakened.

The Romans broke through the walls of Jerusalem on the 17th day of tammuz (the fourth month of the Jewish calendar). When this happened the daily sacrifices in the temple were stopped, and it is in connection with this that the fast of July 12 will be observed from sunrise to sunset.

After the walls of the city were broken, the only retreat left to the Zealots was in the temple of Mount Zion which offered some of the protection of a fortress.

THERE THEY held out for three weeks, but on the ninth day of Av the temple was burned and the revolt was ended.

The ninth of Av, (Aug. 2 this year) is a major Jewish fast, from sunset to sunset.

It symbolizes an end, from a religious point of view, of all sacrificial worship by Jews, and the event is generally regarded as the point in which the synagog began to replace the temple as a place and way of worship.

It also was on the ninth of Av, some 600 years before, that the first Jewish temple on Mount Zion was burned, by Babylonian King Nebuchadnezar.

During the centuries the day has become symbolic of all persecutions and tragedies the Jews have suffered, particularly during the middle ages and in recent world history.

Jewish history has been one of a search for a return to a land of freedom and independence.

From the burning of the Mount Zion temples, and the symbol of persecution involved with it, has come the modern Zionists. This group, motivated by a desire to "return to Mount Zion" have undertaken political means to achieve the return to Palestine.

Prior to this group, the desire for return had been expressed only spiritually—through prayers, poems, liturgy, etc.

Ex-atomic Scientist to be Ordained Baptist Minister at Pughtown Church

CHARLES G. DETWILER

A 36 year old former atomic scientist at the Knolls atomic power plant will be ordained as a Baptist minister tomorrow night at Pughtown Baptist church despite the fact that he has two years of seminary training to complete.

A special dispensation was given to Charles G. Detwiler, of Spring City RD 1, since he has served as lay minister of the Pughtown Baptist church since 1958 and as a lay preacher since 1954.

Prior to accepting the lay ministry at the Pughtown church, in Spring City RD 1, Detwiler, married and the father of three, was a supervisor in the health physics section at the Schenectady atomic plant operated by the General Electric company.

A native of Swedeland, near Norristown, he married a Royersford girl, the former Grace Umstead, in 1949. They have three children, Larry, 9, Beth, 7, and Mark, 6.

HE GRADUATED from Norristown High school in 1942, and served with the intelligence service of the Air Force during the final years of World War II. Much of his service duty was spent in Belem, Brazil.

Following his discharge he enrolled in Gettysburg college where he majored in physics and minored in mathematics. He also served as choir and church school teacher in the Gettysburg Methodist church and on the college gospel team.

After graduation he accepted a position with General electric, rising rapidly in his deparmtent and becoming supervisor in 1957. His particular field was research into the applications of physics in solving health problems.

While in Schenectady he became a lay leader of the Tabernacle Baptist church, teaching in the high school and adult classes, and serving as general superintendent of the church school, chairman of the board of education and deacon.

DECIDING TO make the ministry his career, he came to the Pughtown church in 1958 as lay minister and began studying at the Eastern Baptist Theological seminary, Philadelphia.

Participating in the ordination services will be the Rev. Dr. H. Stanley Jones, pastor emeritus of the Schenectady, N. Y., church where Detwiler served as a lay preacher, and the Rev. Dr. Carl H. Morgan, dean and professor of New Testament interpretation and Greek at Eastern Baptist Theological seminary.

Also participating in the services will be the Rev. Howard E. Mattison, pastor of Downingtown Baptist church; the Rev. Dr. Norman W. Paulin, moderator of the Philadelphia Baptist association; the Rev. Clair E. Umstead, minister of music at the first church of the Nazarene, Washington, D. C., and J. Clarence Wynn, chairman of the board of deacons at the Pughtown church.

Two-fisted Pinochle Player Is Fast Diminishing Breed

The gravel-throated, large-knuckled pinochle player who slammed each card to the table with a whack guaranteed to send beer slopping from the frosted mug at his elbow is fast disappearing — along with the detachable collar shirts and sleeve garters he wore.

"New fangled games are killing him," according to H. Elmer Fegley, who once in a while succeeds in organizing a game of "real" pinochle at the MORA club sponsored by the YMCA.

In the days when the mug of beer at his elbow was a nickle — and a free lunch came with it — the pinochle players would gather in firehouses, kitchens or saloons and soon the only sounds would be the whack . . . whack . . . whack of the cards and occasional muffled cries of rage.

"Ya shudda led da queen or clubs."

"Shaddup and deal before I push in your mouth."

FEGLEY of 963 High street, remembers when the pinochle player lived for the game—and sometimes died for it.

Four Pottstown devotees sat in a local saloon on a hot June night in 1893 slamming away and cooling their tempers from foam topped mugs.

One player suddenly shrieked, pulled out a pistol, and shot his partner. As police led him away, he cried a plea guaranteed to reach any judge's heart:

"He shudda played his Ace."

"They don't play for blood anymore," Fegley explained "Today it's '500' pinochle and hassenpfeffer."

* * *

THE OLD timer would have been horrified—80 cards in "500" pinochle and right and left bowers in hassenpfeffer. And not only that—it's even likely that women will be playing.

Fegley smiles unhappily when the meetings of the MORA club at the YMCA break up. That's when the group heads towards the card tables and the new fangled games.

The men sit chatting quietly, gently dropping or sliding cards into the middle of the table, rationally discussing their mistakes.

One old-timer blamed the end of the hard-fisted pinochle player on the new card tables.

"Now you play in the living room on a table with frail legs that would splinter if you slammed it."

"Pinochle has to be played in the kitchen," he said, unhappily sliding a nine into the center of the table. "And they don't even call 'em 'deeces' anymore," he moaned, pointing to the nine.

* * *

IN A FIRE hall, an old timer who helped keep the firehorses calm while the flames roared and the mustachioed firemen worked the hand pumper, pointed across the room at two youngsters.

"Playing chess—" he muttered, issuing a sound that only can be described as a moan of anguish.

And if today's pinochle player drew "two-hundred aces" or a "double run" he'd probably just smile and say "Gee."

Not so one fireman in 1914, as the story goes, who drew all eight aces, rose to his feet, gave one last look at his hand, and dropped dead.

His fellow fireman chipped in for the grandest funeral in the town's history. After all, a man who draws that kind of pinochle hand deserves the best funeral money can buy.

'Y' Fund Quota Is 80 Percent At Drive's End

Despite a two week extension and the appointment of a local banker to succeed professional fund raisers, less than 80 percent of the YWCA fund raising quota was met at Monday night's final report meeting.

C. Fred Herbsleb, who took over the fund raising on June 18, said some reports are still out. He reported pledges of $2096 Monday night — bringing the total for the six week campaign to $38,923.50.

A $50,000 goal was set at the start of the one-month drive. When the month ended, less than 40 percent of the quota had been met, and the contract of the professional fund raising organization expired.

The contract was not renewed, and the campaign was extended two months. The drive was officially ended at Monday night's meeting, but YWCA officials hope to hear from several industries which have not contributed.

Double Ring Rites at Grace Lutheran Read for H. Saylor, Marion Griesemer

The Rev. Richard Hoffert officiated at a double ring service uniting in marriage Marion Alice Griesemer and Harvey Saylor Jr.

Parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin L. Griesemer, reside at 453 King street. Mr. Saylor is a son of Mrs. Dorothy Saylor, 358 Apple street.

Grace Lutheran church was decorated with white gladioli, white majestic daisies and orchid chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of chantilly lace. Natural scallops of lace, etched with pearls, shaped the open neckline. Sleeves of the fitted bodice extended to a point at the wrists.

A band of taffeta, softly pleated, encircled the waist and ended in a bow and sash at back. The full skirt ended in a chapel sweep.

A coronet of pearls and iridescents secured the hand rolled chapel veil of silk illusion.

She carried an orchid with lilies of the valley on a prayer book.

Motorist Faces Local Charges

Royersford police said they will file charges against a 24 year old Valley Forge man involved in an auto crash Saturday.

The crash occurred in Upper Providence township. But Royersford Patrolman Uriah Fox said a car driven by Arthur J. Brazier, was traveling at a high speed when it passed through the borough.

Two and half miles east of Royersford, at Second avenue and Old State road, the car ran off the highway.

Fox said Brazier would be charged with reckless driving and driving too fast for conditions.

Injured in the crash was Richard Jacob, 20, of Phoenixville. He was treated and released at Phoenixville hospital.

SUMMER CAMPING CALLS 6,000 SCOUTS OF DELAWARE AND MONTGOMERY COUNTIES

CAMP DELMONT, RESICA FALLS
Scout Reservations Open July 2

Chapel—Service Available for all Faces

Activity Area

Summer-Winter Cabin

Beginning this week, the trumpet call to Summer camping will sound for more than 6000 Boy Scouts of the Delaware and Montgomery County area. They will spend one or more weeks at Camp Delmont near Green Lane or the Resica Falls Scout Reservation, Marshalls Creek.

At camp, every Scout will have the opportunity to learn to swim (each camp has its own new, modern, filtered pool), read the compass, make maps, practice fire building and cooking, study nature lore, go hiking, engage in archery, fishing, handicraft, canoeing and many other useful skills and hobbies.

Each camp maintains a full-time medical staff, and chaplains are on duty in all camp periods. Professional Scout leadership is in charge of every week of camp. Each Scout unit attending camp is under the immediate supervision of its own Scoutmaster.

Excellent food prepared by experts and tents for lodging each unit are provided by the camp.

In addition to Scout camping, Resica Falls offers special facilities for Explorer units at the Firestone Explorer base. Here is adventure unlimited. This base has facilities of unexcelled excellence for real Scouting adventures. The base camp has cooking shelters, lean-tos, showers, rifle range, moskeet, archery range, swimming, canoeing, trading post, chart and planning room. A qualified staff at the base will help Explorer units plan their program details such as expedition planning, equipment needs and commissary supplies.

Parents may visit their sons in camp on Saturdays and Sundays only. Parents are especially invited to attend the ceremonial council fire program on Saturday evenings.

Each Scout camper must present a health examination certificate upon entering camp, and he will be rechecked upon arrival at camp.

Before leaving for camp each boy is given complete information about what to bring by way of equipment, clothes and personal articles to make his stay in camp a complete success.

The cost for each boy for one week in camp is only $19. Advance reservation fee of $5 per boy is required. This low fee per boy is, in part, made possible because the Boy Scout council is a member of the United Funds of Delaware and Montgomery Counties.

Swimming Pool—Each Boy May Swim Twice a Day

Typical Troop Site—2 Boys Per Tent

Beverly Aadland's Guardian Files Suit For $5,000,000 Against Flynn Estate

NEW YORK (AP)—A five-million-dollar suit was filed in State Supreme Court Monday charging the late actor Errol Flynn led young Beverly Aadland into an "immoral life of debauchery."

"He led her into a depraved life in which her very immature and impressionable mind idealized and indeed idolized a man who was a voluptuary, an unscrupulous pursuer of pleasure, a predator," declared the complaint.

"He inflicted scars upon her mind, character and reputation which are permanent."

The suit was filed by Howard F. Trussel, named her guardian in connection with Miss Aadland's bid for one-third of Flynn's estate. The estate is being probated in Surrogate's Court here.

The suit names as defendants the temporary administrators of Flynn's estate, his widow, Patrice Wymore Flynn, attorney Justin M. Golenbock and attorney Louis Grossman.

The complaint said Flynn met Miss Aadland in 1957 when he was 50 and she was 15. From then until he died last Oct. 14, Flynn "accustomed her to a frenzied life of wild parties, subjected her to a moral debauchery and sex orgies, and taught her a lewd, wanton and wayward way of life," it said.

* * *

The complaint continues: "Impressed by his personal magnetism and overpowered by his glamorous stardom and the gilt of his silver screen swashbuckling and romantic personality she was lured and inveigled by him into frenzied ecstasies and an immoral life of debauchery.

"He turned her into a sex delinquent whose immoral escapades continued beyond his death in an inevitable chain reaction."

The estate has 20 days in which to answer the suit.

A California court has placed Miss Aadland in custody of a Baptist minister and his wife after a young actor, William Stanciu, was fatally shot April 9. Miss Aadland told police Stanciu was accidentally shot during a struggle for his revolver.

She is living on the minister's San Fernando Valley ranch until her case is reviewed Sept. 20, her 18th birthday.

Helen Keller Celebrates Her 80th Birthday

NEW YORK (AP) — The 80th year was marked Monday in a life that turned affliction into triumph.

It was the birthday of Helen Keller, inspiration to millions, a living symbol of the human spirit's mastery over frailties of the flesh.

She bucked fate and won.

And Monday, as she has been doing for a generation, she was at work to hearten others, to spin light out of darkness.

She joined in a ceremony honoring another battler for the handicapped, Col. Edwin A. Baker, director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

HELEN KELLER

Blind himself, he was given the first Helen Keller International Award by the American Foundation for Overseas Blind for distinguished service to those who cannot see.

"I fervently hope," Miss Keller said, "that the presentation of this award will increase public interest in the work for the blind everywhere."

Miss Keller, not only blind since an illness when she was 19 months old but also deaf and originally dumb, has devoted her life to those like herself who live in soundless darkness.

A writer, lecturer and world-renowned figure, she has become an almost legendary fulfillment of a profound human dream: to rise above physical limitations.

Still cheerful and buoyant despite her years, she was feted at a private luncheon by relatives and friends prior to the award ceremonies.

* * *

Messages of affectionate good wishes poured in from the great and the humble from around the world, many from those given new hope by her example.

"Thank you for living," was a typical one.

Her trip here from her home at Easton, Conn., marked a recent increase in her activity, limited since the death last spring of her longtime friend and secretary, Polly Thompson.

Lately she has been going out more often and showing her usual zest.

She told newsmen she was "very happy that my friends gave me such a lovely birthday party." She said her health is fine.

Born in Tuscumbia, Ala., in 1880, Miss Keller was 7 when the patient efforts of a teacher, Ann Sullivan Macy, helped her to break through the wall of silence.

By connecting hand pressures with physical sensations, such as the touch of a twig or stone, Mrs. Macy started her on a touch language that led to a manual alphabet and new hope for many.

A graduate cum laude of Radcliffe College, she is a master of several languages, a keen student of religion and science, has traveled widely, and has written several books.

Spurned Woman Has Herself Delivered To Man in Basket

LONDON (AP) — Theodora Eagleden, 31, believes in the direct approach—so she had herself delivered in a basket to the home of the man she loves.

It didn't work.

"I would cook for him," Theodora told reporters, "I would buy presents for him. Why won't he just let me love him?"

She referred to Gerry Burrow, 37, who took a dim, dim view.

More than two years ago, Miss Eagleden went to work at Burrows' office. She said that for the first five months she didn't even notice him.

"Then I looked deeply into his soul," she said. "Into his deep eyes. That was how my love was born."

Her love was not returned.

After other methods failed, Theodora got the idea of having herself delivered to his front door.

* * *

"I had to pay 10 pounds—$28—for the hamper from the Royal Institute for the Blind," she said.

The basket proved big enough to hold her fairly comfortably.

"I hired a van for 5 pounds," she said, "and a man drove me to Gerry's flat and left me inside the hamper outside his door."

When Gerry found out what happened, he wasn't amused.

"That woman has really made me ill," he told newsmen. "She's pursued me all over the country. I just want to forget that she ever existed."

* * *

Theodora said he made her promise not to bother him for six months.

"When those six months are up," she said, "I intend to get my man."

The basket delivery took place during one of the warmest weekends of the summer.

Change in Act Satisfies Police

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A truce was called Monday in stripteaser Joann (Bunny) Ware's running battle with St. Louis police.

Her suit to stop police from arresting her at the Stardust Night Club was withdrawn. Her attorney, James J. Rankin, said the issue was moot now that police have stopped arresting her after each performance.

She had been arrested 16 times on charges of presenting a lewd and indecent act. The first 15 charges were dismissed by Police Judge Rodney Weiss, who ruled her act was legal but overrated. Police then arrested her again, despite the ruling.

But Friday and Saturday nights she danced unimpeded. Police said she wasn't arrested because the act was changed.

Rankin said the dancer's movements are unchanged but that she "winds up now wearing what she used to start with."

Mays, Gentile Head Majors' Hitting Derby

By BEN OLAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK — Willie Mays won the National league Rookie-of-the-Year award in 1951. The following season Jim Gentile began his professional baseball career with Santa Barbara of the California league.

Today, Mays, star San Francisco outfielder leads the National league in batting with a .348 average while Gentile, Baltimore's rookie first baseman, tops the American league with a .347 mark.

WILLIE MAYS

Both Mays and Gentile moved up from third place with consistent hitting in last week's games. Willie climbed nine points with 12 hits in 29 tries and Gentile picked up 19 points with seven safeties in 13 times at bat. The Orioles obtained Gentile from the Los Angeles farm system.

Norm Larker, the veteran Los Angeles' first sacker, gained 22 points with a 10 for 21 performance and moved into second place in the National league at .345. Dick Groat of Pittsburgh dropped one notch to third place at .338 and his teammate, Roberto Clemente, also fell one place to fourth at .332. Groat tailed off two points and Clemente three. The figures include Sunday's games.

PETE RUNNELS of Boston, the American league leader a week ago, dropped into the runner-up position behind Gentile as a result of a 15 point decrease to .337. Runnels collected only seven hits in 30 at bats.

Minnie Minoso of the Chicago White Sox advanced two places to third on a 17-point gain to .333. Minoso hit at a .500 pace last week with 12 safe blows in 24 trips. Roger Maris of New York dropped from second to fourth at .329 while Chicago's Al Smith holds down the number five spot with a .317 average.

The handsomest gain was recorded by Cleveland's Harvey Kuenn, the 1959 batting champ. Kuenn, at .283 a week ago, zoomed 31 points to a sixth-place .314 with 14 hits in 25 attempts.

Rookie Pancho Herrera kept alive his hitting streak which has now reached 19 games—the longest in the Majors this season. The Philadelphia first baseman is batting .309.

Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs continues to lead the National league in homers with 21 and runs batted in with 61. The Yanks' Maris tops the American with 22 home runs and 58 RBI.

Braves A Team Wins School Tilt

The Braves A team got off to a rollicking start in Baseball school play Monday. But its counterpart B squad ran into a bit of misfortune.

The A Braves banged out a 13-2 count over the Phillies after the B Phils had rallied for all their runs in the final frame to gain a 5-3 nod over the Braves B unit.

Both games were played at The Hill school Far fields.

Dale Leuthold checked the A Phillies and was backed by a 14-hit assault, which included a homer and triple by George Levengood. Bill Harner hit one for the circuit for the losers.

CUBS TAME CLEVELAND AT COOPERSTOWN

Drott's 7-Frame No-Hitter Leads Chicago's 5-0 Win In Hall Of Fame Test

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Dick Drott pitched no-hit ball during his seven-inning stint as the Chicago Cubs won the 19th annual Hall of Fame baseball game, beating the Cleveland Indians 5-0 Monday.

The Indians collected two hits off Moe Drabowsky, who pitched the eighth and ninth.

Drott had a perfect game going for 6 1-3 innings until he walked Ken Aspromonte on a 3-2 pitch.

Ron Santo twice saved Drott's no-hitter in the sixth. He scooped up a hard grounder in back of third base and tossed out Hank Foiles. Then Marty Keough, a left-handed batter, dragged a bunt down the third base line. Santo picked up the ball barehanded and threw out Keough by a step.

Santo also got the big blow of the game. He homered over the left field wall in the third with Ernie Banks and Dick Gernert on base. Jerry Kindell had led off the four-run inning with a homer.

Jack Harshman, first of three Cleveland pitchers, was tagged with the loss. He allowed all five runs and six hits in his four-inning performance. Dan Murphy tagged him for a homer in the first, Mike Lee and Barry Latman finished up and allowed just two hits.

Bubba Phillips and Tito Francona collected singles for Cleveland.

In the pre-game ceremonies, Lou Brissie, commissioner of American Legion Junior Baseball, presented a certificate to Fred Bowen of Detroit as the outstanding American Legion Junior for 1959.

Hall of Fame members on hand included Frank (Home Run) Baker, Joe Cronin, president of the American League; Joe McCarthy, ex-Yankee manager, and Ty Cobb, a charter member of the Hall of Fame.

Ordered To Rest

Temperamental Cleveland outfielder Jim Piersall, shown in the midst of one his many temper tantrums of late, has been sent home for an indefinite rest. Piersall insists the trip to his Newton, Mass., home is for a normal visit, but Dr. Don Kelly, Indians' physician, said he ordered an indefinite rest for the stormy picket after Piersall's banishment from the second game of a Sunday doubleheader with the Yankees at Cleveland.

Buchholz, MacKay Lose In Wimbledon Net Play

WIMBLEDON, England, (AP) — The nerve-jarring court collapse of young Earl Buchholz when he was on the threshold of a notable victory and the defeat of Barry MacKay in a welter of double faults made Monday one of America's darkest days in the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Young Buchholz five times had top-seeded Neale Fraser of Australia within a single point of defeat before he fell writhing on to the grass — victim of cramps and an old ankle injury.

He was leading 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 15-15 when inability to stand up made it impossible for him to carry on and Fraser was declared the default.

Shortly afterward, MacKay, the big power-hitter from Dayton, Ohio, who is seeded second, went down before the inspired stroking of Nicola Pietrangeli, the off-and-on racket artist from Italy 16-14, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

THESE TWO quarter-final setbacks left the United States with no men's representative in this oldest of tennis championships—the first time in more than a quarter of a century the Yanks have been so degraded.

MacKay's blazing power was helpless before Pietrangeli's deft darts. The six-foot-four American greased the skids for his downfall by serving double-faults at critical points of the match.

In the day's other major singles matches, all behind schedule, Roy Emerson of Australia defeated Mario Llamas of Mexico 2-6, 6-0, 6-2, 9-7, and fourth-seeded Luis Ayala of Chile rallied to beat Jan-Erik Lundquist of Sweden 9-11, 0-6, 6-1, 10-8, 6-4. Both went into the quarter-finals.

Christine Truman of Britian entered the women's quarter-finals beating Vera Puzejova of Czechoslovakia 7-5, 6-3.

BARRY MACKAY

BUCHHOLZ, 19, one of America's brightest Davis cup prospects, went tumbling to the ground while lunging for a forehand shot in the 29th game of the fourth set of a slashing, gruelling match that lasted three hours.

He tried to carry on but he collapsed again moments later and was led, wincing with pain and near tears, to the dressing room where he said:

"I could have won—wait till next year."

His injury was termed not serious by attending physicians. They said he would possibly be able to continue in the doubles tournament where he is teamed with his fellow townsman Chuck McKinley.

The St. Louis youngster complained later that the ailment stemmed from a torn ankle ligament which he had suffered in football five years ago.

He said he began getting cramps and, when he put weight on his right ankle, the ankle turned.

MacKay served 14 double-faults, 10 in the first set which he lost with a doublefault at set point. Generally, he was wild, particularly off his backhand, and no match for the agile Italian who fought like a jungle cat.

NATS SCORE THREE TIMES IN WILD 10TH

Orioles Fall Behind Yanks By Three Percentage Points

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Washington Senators scored three runs in the 10th inning without hitting the ball out of the infield Monday night, whipping Baltimore 5-2 and knocking the Orioles out of the American League lead.

The Orioles remained a half-game ahead of New York in the won-lost column, but dropped three percentage points off the Yankees' pace.

Both teams wasted many scoring opportunities during the game but the Senators proved opportunists in the wild extra inning.

Bob Allison, whose diving catch in the sixth prevented an Oriole run, opened the 10th by drawing a walk off relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm.

After Lennie Green beat out a bunt, Allison stole third on the knuckle-balling Wilhelm. Both runners scored when second baseman Marv Breeding made a wild throw to the plate after fielding Julio Becquer's bouncer.

Becquer went to third when Billy Gardner beat out another bunt, and scored as Hal Naragon rapped into a double

Sparked by the lusty hitting of Jack Painter, Coventryville Methodist chalked up its third successive Church league win Monday night at Memorial park.

The Methodists, who have yet to taste defeat, turned back Emmanuel, 8-2, to climb to within one game of pacesetting Kimberton.

A five-run fourth cracked the game wide open after Emmanuel had stayed in contention during the early innings.

Coventryville led by a 3-2 count before exploding in the fourth.

PAINTER, who homered in the third with the sacks empty, doubled home three runs in the big fourth. He added a single to his extra-base smashes to register a perfect three-for-three offensive performance.

Ralph Moses limited Emmanuel to five hits. He struck out five and walked two. Leroy Ford, the losing hurler, gave up nine hits while fanning five and passing four.

Don Specht led the losers at the plate with two hits in three trips.

The loss dumped Emmanuel into the league cellar.

KOUFAX FANS 'EM

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the last four years the National League strikeout record has been tied or broken six times and each time Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers has been one of the pitchers involved. In 1959, Koufax had games in which he fanned 18, 16 and 13. The one-game record of 25 was set last Aug. 31 when Koufax fanned 18 and Giant pitchers struck out seven.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Wall Street Observers Mix Caution With Otpimism

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street observers mixed caution with optimism Monday in assessing the stock market's summer prospects.

Some analysts looked for a further advance, but just how virile it would be was considered debatable.

Standard & Poor's Corp. commented that last week's rebound from profit taking may have marked the beginning of another leg of the summer rally.

"The market continues to be featured by crosscurrents, though the emphasis appears to be changing somewhat," said Standard & Poor's.

"This reflects growing uneasiness over the high price-earnings ratio commanded by science stocks as well as a willingness to ignore day-to-day news of major industries and the certainty that second-quarter earnings will be down from a year before.

"Increased confidence in a second-half business upturn and the persuasive record of summer rallies are factors.

"The probability is that the market will move higher before it goes lower. Not all summer rallies have been extensive, however, nor do current indications suggest a powerful rise in business."

The Fitch Survey considers the recent erratic performance of the market as a prelude to strengthening behavior.

"The market's current pattern," according to the analyst, "seems to point in favor of the more cautiously optimistic rather than the other way around, with seasonal and election influences lending spice to a much greater degree of improvement over the next few months."

The investment house, Hornblower & Weeks, says the corrective action of the last two weeks, in which about one-third of the advance since early May was retraced, "set the stage for another attempt at surmounting overhead resistance at last winter's highs."

"Regardless of what the popular stock averages do, the recent pattern of selectivity among individual stocks will probably be continued," says Investors Advisory Institute.

"Investors should not rely on over-all movement of the averages for market success but should confine commitments to stocks possessing attractive fundamental value."

Arthur W. Weisenberger & Co. observes that even though the prices of many stocks have suffered large declines "we believe a further period of correction lies ahead once this summer pre-election rise has spent its force."

It's the Milkman

quarts, etc.

A kleptomaniac dog caused some trouble for Gerald Groff who used to work for Sunny Slope dairy, Spring City.

For three days a note was left for him to leave a pound of butter, which he happily did.

FINALLY THE lady of the house, who never found any butter, got up early enough to confront Groff with the question of "where was the butter."

After an investigation, it was learned that the woman's dog found the butter supply, opened the milk box with his nose, scratched open the butter box and devoured the butter.

One absent minded woman who ended up with large supply of milk, always left the same simple note, "leave a quart of milk."

In milkless desperation she asked the milkman why he wasn't leaving the milk. He explained he was. Then she remembered. She had been putting it in the laundry room and forgetting it.

NOW TRY this cryptic note for what it's worth.

"Dear Milkman: Do not leave any milk today. And if there is no note and money out just leave two quarts, because I went to the hospital then. And I will pay you when I come home when I go."

And this one.

"We are going away on our vacation. Will not need any milk until we return. Please be sure to leave three quarts on the day we return, but we can't be sure just what day that will be."

"Keine Milch; pas de lait; beg moloko; no milk!"

Sunny, Humid Weather Will Swelter Area

a cloud in the sky.

WITH JUNE drawing to a close, the lack of 90 degree days this year to date is significant. There have been only a scattering of Summers across the years when it has gone this long without a 90 degree day.

As recently as 1958, however, there was no 90 degree day until July. There were nine such days that July and 13 during the year. A normal June has from two to nine 90 degree days.

This unusual June feature may not last long because today's reading is forecast as "about 90." It will be mostly sunny and more humid today, following a low this morning around 65.

It will continue to grow warm and muggy tonight, with a low near 70, and a high tomorrow near 90 again.

Tomorrow will be mostly cloudy, with a chance of rain late in the day or early Thursday.

Temperatures will average 4 to 5 degrees above normal through the week. The normal high and low here this time of year are 85 and 64. It will remain warm after today's up swing.

Showers and thunderstorms will end Thursday, with the perfect Summer weather returning, at least for several days.

Municipal Airport Bids Advertised

Pottstown's Municipal airport improvement program is advertised today for bids in The Mercury, the first step toward the actual construction work.

Sealed proposals for site preparation, paving and lighting the runway and additional hangar development work will be opened July 14 by the airport committee.

The Federal Aviation agency will then be asked to approve the lowest responsible bidder, and the borough and FAA will then sign the grant agreement for $96,121 in Federal aid.

Joseph Mott, director of the FAA's New York regional office, said the FAA would cooperate so construction could begin about the end of July and could be completed by the end of the year.

MEMORIES OF HIS MISSION — The Rev. Wilbur Martin, formerly pastor of the Brethren in Christ church here, has just returned from Nigeria, an African country recently granted its independence. He is shown against a composite picture of the people he knew and worked with as the Brethren church carried the Christian mission into the new nation.

The Rev. Martin photographed these natives, among the thousands in a land trying to catch up with the ages. Rev. Martin holds a dagger and scabbard fashioned by a native. The table before him is covered with other souvenirs and momentos: ivory and ebony carvings, a boar tusk, camel skin wallet, a native decoration and a deadly scorpion preserved in a bottle.

Upper Pottsgrove Board Okays Tax Schedule

ceipts is a State reimbursement of $106,177.

THE BUDGET, totalling $227,667, was adopted 4 to 1, with Needhammer voting negatively. The major items are: Payment to the Pottsgrove Joint district, $198,361; debt service (loan repayments and authority rental payments), $22,766; and general control (secretary and treasurer salaries, $450 and $100, respectively, and tax collector's fee, $5600), $6440.

The board approved tax exonerations for 1959-60 with two members of the board of supervisors in attendance. They were Russell Wade, president, and John Prout, secretary.

Earl Keim, Boyertown, was hired as delinquent tax collector for $320 outstanding taxes.

The board met in executive session following the public meeting to discuss assessment problems with Herbert Geiser, a representative of the county board of assessment.

DROUTH HITS CHINA

TOKYO (AP)—A long dry spell is hampering the planting of fall crops in many parts of China, Radio Peiping reports. It said wells and canals are being rebuilt in an effort to get water to the fields but water in reservoirs and ponds has been cut by half.

Missionary from Nigeria Tells Of Calm Independence Moves

"but it is living in Old testament times."

"Just 56 years ago Nigeria was conquered by England. Since they are already in the process of winning complete independence, it shows how forward looking these people have become."

NIGERIA CAN become the leading country of Africa due to this great progress, said the Rev. Martin, but the Christian church must have a hand in building the government and getting rid of Mohammedan bias.

The people of Nigeria are either Mohammedan Christian or pagan. The Northern Nigeria government is Mohammedan. The test, said the Rev. Martin, is to determine if the central government will eventually go Mohammedan or Christian.

As the natives look at it, and the Mohammedans teach it, "Christianity is a white man's religion."

"But the education and medical help the Christians bring in is far superior to the Mohammedans," said the Rev. Martin. "The Mohammedans have nothing to offer when someone becomes sick."

The natives even distinguish between the government and the Christian hospitals. "Though the medicine be the same, the hands are different," the Nigerians say.

WHAT IS the Nigerian attitude toward America in face of segregation and the integration struggle here?

"I believe the Nigerian sees we are earnestly trying to solve racial problems in a peaceful way," said the Rev. Martin. As a whole, the white man is well respected. The natives feel the white man deserves this respect.

"Only the opening of riots and bloodshed here between Negroes and whites would see retaliation in Nigeria against Christian missions," the Rev. Martin estimated.

The white man is free to move in nearly all parts of Nigeria, and is welcome. Consequently there are Christian missions in all three "States".

The United States government gives Nigeria monetary aid, trained people to help develop industry and schools, and other persons to teach the new country how to run its government.

AMONG THOSE questioned at the first hearing, held in the Pennsburg school building, was Mrs. Margaret Yoder, cafeteria manager and home economics teacher in the school system. She was accompanied by Frederick Smillie, her attorney and former district attorney.

Following the second hearing, Albert Orthaus, joint board president, said a report could be expected this week or next week, depending on Pearlstine's advice.

He later reported that there would be no "whitewash if any mismanagement" is found by the board.

The joint board's inquiry was the second conducted into the same subject. No report was issued following the first probe last September.
